

Mark C. Jepson

CONTACT INFORMATION 6606 Whitaker Avenue Home: (818) 989-3210
Van Nuys, CA 91406 USA E-mail: mark.jepson@csuci.edu

TEACHING EXPERIENCE California State University, Channel Islands, Camarillo, California USA
Lecturer, Department of Sociology 2006–2015

Courses Include:

- Introduction to Sociology
- Political Sociology
- Crime and Society
- Social Problems
- Social Movements
- Social Stratification
- Globalization and Development
- Classical Sociological Theory

University of California at Los Angeles, Los Angeles, California USA

Continuing Lecturer, Department of Sociology 1998–2015

Courses Include:

- Introductory Sociology
- Culture and Personality
- Globalization and Society
- Sociology of Crime
- Research Methods
- Contemporary Sociological Theory
- Development of Sociological Theory
- Collective Behavior and Social Movements

Occidental College, Los Angeles, California USA

Adjunct Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology 2000–2006

Courses Include:

- Introductory Sociology
- Classical Sociological Theory
- Contemporary Sociological Theory
- Social Movements and Revolutions
- Social Class and Inequality
- Senior Seminar
- Crime and Deviance

PUBLICATIONS Jepson, Mark C. Entrepreneurs or Corporations: Divergent Patterns of Class Formation in the Early Anthracite Mining Trade, 1815–1860. Political Power and Social Theory, 16:3–42, 2003.

- CONFERENCE PRESENTATIONS
- “Globalization and Suicide in the Developing World,” presented at the International Health session of the Annual Meeting of the Pacific Sociological Association, San Diego, CA., April 2009.
 - “The Wages of Politics: The Political Creation of Good Jobs and the Myth of Manufacturing,” presented at the Annual Meeting of the California Sociological Association, Berkeley, CA., Oct. 2007.
 - “Finance Capital and Small Proprietorship: The Case of the Bituminous Coal Industry, 1895–1930,” presented at the Annual Meeting of the American Sociological Association, Washington D.C., 1995.
- MANUSCRIPTS
- “Entrepreneurs or Corporations: Divergent Patterns of Class Formation in the Early Anthracite Mining Trade, 1815–1860,” Dissertation.
 - “Radicalism or Reform: A Comparison of Unionism in the Western Metal Mines and the Eastern Coal Mines of the United States, 1890–1905,” presented at the Macro-Sociology Colloquium, Department of Sociology, 1991.
 - “Unconscious Socialism and the Making of the Western Working Class: The Sources of Radical Working-Class Consciousness in the Nonferrous Metals Industry, 1848–1893,” M.A. Thesis.
 - “The American Labor Movement and the Role of the State,” M.S. Thesis.
 - “The Poverty of Indeterminism in the Social Sciences,” B.A. Thesis.
- PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT
- Participated in the 2014-2015 “Promising Practices Course Redesign” project, funded by the Chancellor’s Office of California State University. Our four-member faculty team collaborated closely with the university’s “Teaching and Learning Innovations” team to develop and pilot new strategies and methods for improving student learning, with a particular focus on “Introductory Sociology.” Our work included, but was not limited to, developing the following learning tools:
- Virtual field trips using Google Maps, audio and video
 - Interactive activities to partner with recorded lectures
 - Digital tools (i.e., Clickers, Google Docs) to increase active learning in the classroom
 - Online supplemental instruction materials to support struggling learners
 - Digital Tools (i.e., Google Hangouts, Zoom, Today’s Meet) to increase Faculty-Student & Student-Student interactions
 - Digital literacies to improve student success
- EDUCATION
- University of California at Los Angeles, Los Angeles, California USA
- Ph.D., Sociology, 1998
 - M.A., Sociology, 1990
- Arizona State University, Tempe, Arizona USA
- M.S., Criminal Justice, 1985
- Whitman College, Walla Walla, Washington USA
- B.A., Sociology and Anthropology, 1982

PROFESSIONAL
MEMBERSHIP

American Sociological Association
Pacific Sociological Association
California Sociological Association

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Coach, Youth Basketball and Soccer
Volunteer, numerous Non-Governmental Organizations
Campaign worker, various local, state, and national elections

OTHER
EXPERIENCE

Residential Treatment Counselor, Jane Wayland Center for Emotionally Disturbed Children, Phoenix, Arizona

French Chef, Etienne Restaurant, Scottsdale, Arizona